

The full range of hard glass monitors for education

The T series range of Hard Glass monitors from Edge10 are specifically designed for schools, colleges and Universities.

With seven other "education-specific" features including intellocking bezels, reinforced security lock, ultra stable base, and specialist warranty services these monitors meet all the requirements of the most demanding environment.

Edge10, the application specific monitor vendor actively focuses on several distinct market segments with their range of advanced display monitors. Key markets served include: education (hard glass), CCTV and digital security, graphic design, video editing and touch screen.

The T series Education Specific Monitors are available in the traditional 17" 4:3 (square) format and come in 19", 22" and 24" 16:10 (widescreen) formats. They have an attractive piano black finish. They also benefit from an ultra slim bezel, advanced stereo speakers, an ultra fast response time and both DVI and VGA inputs.
